AUTO SMASHED BY TRAIN

Attorneys Pope and Runyard of Waukegan on Train Which Kills Three

INEXPERIENCE IS THE CAUSE

First Tour Proves Fatal to Iowa Doctor, Wife and Daughter on Visit to Relatives in Indiana

Attorneys John Pope and Eugene Runyard of Waukegan were passengers on the train which killed an Iowa doctor and his wife and daughter near Lombard. The two men were on their way to Belvidere to attend the Zion City quo warranta case there.

A new runabout which had captivated the fancy of Dr. W. J. McEvilly of Dysart, Iowa, cost him his life and that of his wife and daughter Marie, 14 years of age, when the machine was struck by a train at Peck's Crossing, near Lombard, Tuesday morning. The three had left Chicago, intending to motor home, when death overtook them.

Dr. McEvilly and his family had been passing a vacation in Wisconsin and Indiana. While at Anderson, Ind., they purchased the runabout and decided to motor home instead of returning by train. They ran into Chicago, spent a few days in shopping and left for the west.

At Peck's Crossing the road which they were following crosses the Northwestern tracks in what is known as a reverse curve. A grove of trees and heavy underbrush obscures the tracks at this point so that it is impossible to see an approaching train at any distance from the tracks.

It was about 9 o'clock when the physician reached the crossing, and the first warning he had of danger was the vision of the engine of the Freeport express bearing down upon his car at a rate of fifty miles an hour.

The physician was unfamiliar with his new car. Instead of putting on full speed ahead he reversed his power and sought to back from the tracks. The car bucked and came to a full stop. The second that might have meant life to all three was lost and the mogul engine plowed through the machine, bringing instant death to the driver and fatal injuries to his wife and daughter.

The train was stopped and the physician's body with his wife and daughter taken on board. The little girl died before the train reached Wheaton. The bodies of the father and daughter were left there and the train crew started to take Mrs. McEvilly to Elgin. She sank rapidly however, and it was deemed wise to place her in the Northwestern's hospital at West Chicago. There she died at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, after having regained consciousness for a brief period.

A telegram was sent to the Iowa town to officers of the Northwestern rail way company, and members of the lodge of Mystic Workers of Wheaton were requested by return wire to take charge of the remains until a delegation of the home lodge, headed by the Mayor of Dysart, could reach there to take the bodies back.

So far as is known Mr. McEvilly had no relatives, his parents being dead. He moved to Iowa six years ago from Detroit, Michigan, where he first started the practice of medicine. He was a graduate of the Michigan University. He was forty years of age and his wife was forty-six.

GIRL KILLED BY CAR

Josephine Kelley of Waukegan Meets Horrible Death

Pretty little Josephine Kelley, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley 306 South Sheridan road, was instantly killed by a street car on Marion street Sunday evening about 5:30. The accident occurred near Belvidere street. The child's head and left leg were completely severed from the body which was mangled considerably.

The report that the child had tried to cross the street in front of an automobile and ran directly in front of the car, is denied, as it is said the automobile was nearly half a block away when the accident occurred. A call was sent for the Larson & Conrad ambulance. When it arrived it was found the child was dead. The ambulance returned and the dead wagon was sent to the scene.

According to statements, the Kelley child, with her small brother, was playing on the sidewalk when the car turned the corner of Belvidere and Marion streets and started south. The boy ran across the tracks and the girl is said to have tried to follow him.

B. W. Fisher, motorman, in a statement declared to Deputy Coroner Conrad that he did not see his car strike the child and knew nothing of it until the car had gone a block. The conductor on the car was C. Buttler; the conductor on the trailer was A. R. Ford.

The evidence of a Mr. McGee of Milwaukee proved of much value. He was driving an automobile north on Marion street at a point near Liberty street when the accident occurred. This disproved the report that the child ran in front of his machine. The occupants of the automobile saw the car strike what appeared to be a bundle of rags. The auto was on the scene a moment later and saw that it was a child that had been struck. Mrs. McGee screamed and fainted. The street car had stopped at the next corner to take on passengers and her scream showed the people aboard the car that something had happened. The motorman asserts that that was the first he knew of the accident.

VOLIVA GAINS CONTROL

Buys Zion for $700,000, Paying Down $50,000 on the Deal

DEMONSTRATION SUNDAY

Headed by Big Brass Band Hosts March Through City Reviving Same Interest as That of Dowie's Reign

At five o'clock last Thursday evening Judge Landis, in Chicago, entered the federal court order which authorized Receiver Thomas to proceed at once to sell the Zion estate to Voliva for $700,000.

Voliva upon seeing the order entered, presented the receiver with a check for $50,000, and it is understood that the remainder is to be paid October 1. Cobe & McKinnon are said to have merely acted as agents in furnishing Voliva the $700,000 which he is to pay back to them inside of eight years.

When the order was entered providing for the sale to Voliva, he gave the laigh to the attorneys for the Independents and the way they had been defeated.

The minute the order was entered the Independents started for the court room door, much dejected and cut up over the affair, and while they declare that they will appeal the case and thus prevent Voliva from gaining possession for some time at least, it is rumored that the Judge is likely to deny the appeal on the grounds that there has been no defect on which to base an appeal.

When news of the decision was flashed to Zion Thursday evening, there was weeping and wailing on one side and joyful expressions on the other. The Independents had firmly believed all along that Voliva would never get control of the city and the decision was a hard blow to them.

Sunday was a day of triumph for Voliva and Zion City, three thousand strong the followers of Voliva general overseer of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion and successor to John Alexander Dowie, marched over the north shore city and took formal possession of the buildings of which they were again in control. It was like a revival of the old days of Dowie or "Elijah II" as he was generally styled, and at the consecration meeting held in the big tabernacle during the afternoon Voliva prophesied that the world would again in a short time be startled by the wonders and miracles that the Lord would work in Zion.

The call for the free will offering preceded the march about the city and hundreds of men, women and children filed past the tri-colored barrel that stood before the pulpit and cast there-in their offerings ranging from five cent pieces to twenty dollar bills. By the time the last one had given his donation the money was sixteen or eighteen inches deep in the barrel, the bills being packed down by the weight of silver that was mixed with them.

At five o'clock the Zion band took its place at the head of the column that formed out side the tabernacle to march through the town. After the band came Voliva and the elders of the church, and behind these came the hundreds who composed the "white robed choir." These in turn were followed by the junior seventies, the intermediate seventies and the senior seventies. Those who were too old to stand the three mile walk were allowed to ride in omnibuses, but the rest of the throng plodded through the dust and sand on foot.

A proclamation of the march circulated several days previous stated that "baby carriages should be pushed by men" and there was a number of these small vehicles trundled along in the last division of the parade.

Only one incident jarred the harmony of the occasion was the attack of "Elder" John Taylor, former ally of Voliva, who stood in an empty wagon and hurled startling and vilifying epithets at his former leader.

KENOSHAN MURDER VICTIM?

Decomposed Body Found by Children on Lake Shore Suggests Murder

BELIEVED TO BE J. FREDSEN

Police of Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha Working on Case and Confident Mystery Will Soon be Solved

The nude body of an unidentified man in a bad state of decomposition was washed ashore at Lake Bluff just opposite the Gad's Hill encampment Sunday evening. Children staying at the encampment made the discovery. They reported the matter to the superintendent and the body was removed to the Larson & Conrad undertaking rooms in Waukegan. The fact that the skull was battered in indicates he may have been murdered. The Police are making inquiries in Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha and think it possible the discovery may solve some mysterious disappearance.

The appearance of the body indicated it had been in the water two months. He was of stocky build, being about five feet tall and weighting about 190 pounds. He was about forty years old. The fact that he had absolutely no clothing on made it impossible to establish his identity.

Some certain elements that bear out the murder theory. His battered skull shows the blows of some heavy instrument. Deputy Coroner Conrad says it is possible the man's skull may have been fractured after he was drowned. When found, the high waves were washing the body against several railroad ties lying in the water and it is possible that his skull was pounded in by being struck against these.

Little Children staying at Gad's Hill were playing on the lake shore when they happened to stumble across the body, half in the water.

The police got into communication with North Shore cities but has not been able to connect the man's description with any of the many missing men from the North Shore Cities.

Later—it is thought that the mystery of the strange disappearance of Jorgen Fredsen, a wealthy Kenosha County farmer, from there January has been solved. The body that was washed to shore at Waukegan proved to be that of Fredsen. Upon the day of Fredsen's disappearance he had drawn $500 from the bank at Kenosha and a few hours later disappeared, and the officials suspect that Fredsen was robbed and murdered and his body thrown into the lake.

His body was interred in the Potter's cemetery.

LEG BROKEN IN GAME OF BASE BALL

While sliding for home in a ball game played by the Waukegan Centrals and Gurnee near the latter village Sunday, George Setterlund, first basemen for the Centrals was blocked by the Gurnee catcher and in some manner both bones in one leg were broken. The accident happen in the first part of the fifth when the score was 18 to 1 in favor of the Waukegan team. The remaining innings were not played.

The Centrals had been having an easy time of it and were romping around the bases at will. It looked as if Setterlund would have plenty of time to get home but someone called for him to slide. He did so and James Callahan, catcher for the Gurnee team sought to block him. Their legs became entangled and when extricated it was found Setterlund's leg had been broken.

Many of the Waukegan team are angry because they say Callahan would not bring Setterlund to Waukegan in his automobile. The former is said to have made the simple excuse that he could not do so.

Dr. Gourley of Waukegan was called by phone and hurried to Gurnee in his auto. The injured youth was removed to a nearby farmhouse where the two bones in his leg were set. The White and Holland ambulance removed him to his home in Waukegan.

THEFT AT C. E. MEETING

Hand-Bag, Stolen by Either Delegate or Visitor

Was there some dishonest Christian Endeavorer at the convention which closed at Waukegan Sunday?

Or did some outsider intrude and do a most dishonest act, that of stealing a purse containing money?

Officers of the convention are certain no member of the Endeavor was the offender—they insist somebody not a member attended the meeting and committed the only theft reported at the convention.

Miss Cecil Armstrong of Chicago an officer of the society, was the victim of the robbery. She was the one who had charge of selling supplies during the convention and she was at the meeting in the army Saturday evening.

The purse which was stolen contained $5 and her gold watch, as well as a number of trinkets. The purse was in a large hand-bag and hand bag and contents were taken.

Miss Armstrong was among those who entered into the singing and it was while she was on her feet and helping the singing of hymns that her purse was picked up from the chair behind her where she had placed it when the singing started. When she sat down and reached for the hand bag, it was gone and, although an effort was made to see if anybody had been observed taking it, no clue could be found.

The belief of officers is that somebody had watched Miss Armstrong and, knowing that she had been selling supplies, believed she had placed all the convention money in the hand-bag but in their conclusion they were mistaken. She did not have the Endeavor money in the bag but had placed it elsewhere for safe keeping. Had the convention funds been there, the thief would have made a good haul.

The fact that she was the victim causes belief that somebody who attended the convention had planned the theft and, whether a delegate or not, will never be determined. That somebody who had attended meetings, whether delegate or otherwise, took the purse is the conclusion of some for they figure she was picked for the victim on the presumption that she had the supplies' money in the hand-bag.

ZION YOUTH DROWNED

Colored Musician Drowns While Bathing, Nearly Dragging Rescuer Down

Elmer Hartsfield, a young Zion City colored boy, was drowned late Tuesday afternoon while in bathing and the verdict of a coroner's jury at Zion Wednesday morning was that the young man came to his death accidentally by drowning in Lake Michigan.

Hartsfield, who was about eighteen years of age, was in bathing with a crowd of young fellows although he was unable to swim. While out on a raft he jumped off after being warned that the water was pretty deep. He went under three times before finally sinking from view.

James Taylor, who attempted to rescue him, was dragged under twice before he succeeded in releasing himself from the death clutches of the drowning boy. The body was recovered with the aid of grappling hooks by other bathers and a crowd which gathered on the shore. Dr. J. G. Speicher is reported to have been summoned and to have used every means to revive the young man but without success.

Young Hartsfield was a member of the Zion band in which organization he was a clarinet player. He resided at 3005 Gilboa avenue. Deputy Coroner Edward Conrad conducted the inquest.

MURDERER ESCAPES POLICE

Cold Blooded Murder of President I. G. Rawn of the Monon Railroad

CLIMAX TO REIGN OF CRIME

The Police of Winnetka, Where the Crime Was Committed, Telephoned Waukegan for Bloodhounds Wednesday

The Waukegan police were telephoned to at 2:20 Wednesday morning by the police of Winnetka and requested to send blood hounds at once for the purpose of trailing the murderer of I. G. Rawn the president of the Monon railroad who was shot by a burglar at 1:30. The police were unable to render the assistance to the Winnetka authorities but kept a sharp lookout for the murderer after receiving a meager description of the man.

I. G. Rawn, president of the Monon railway, was shot through the heart and instantly killed at his summer home in Winnetka at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday morning by a would-be murderer.

The burglar escaped. There is no clue to his identity.

Servants and women in the house, aroused by the shot, found Mr. Rawn lying in the hallway on his face. The front door was open. There was no one in sight. The fact that the murder was committed by a burglar was established by the finding of jimmy marks on the door, which had been forced open.

The assassination is the climax to a reign of crime that has driven the residents of the north shore suburb almost to a frenzy.

One of these was the robbery of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell in Winnetka last Saturday.

The story of the shooting of Mr. Rawn was told by Ralph G. Coburn, a son-in-law of the victim, over the telephone Wednesday morning.

"Mrs. Rawn was awakened by sounds on the first floor of the house," he said. "Mr. Rawn was also awakened and he also heard the sounds. He insisted upon going down to ascertain the cause, although Mrs. Rawn tried to persuade him not to do it.

"He descended the stairs and had barely reached the landing when everyone in the house was awakened by the roar of two shots fired in quick succession.

"I rushed out as did the others. We found Mr. Rawn lying in night clothes. Blood was trickling from his breast.

"He struggled, turned over, tried to speak, and could not. We sent in hurried calls for a doctor. Mr. Rawn died within five or six minutes after the shot had been fired. He did not regain consciousness.

"We immediately summoned the Winnetka police, and it was they who found the mark on the door which established the fact that the crime had been committed by a burglar. Other than that we have no clew.

"The house was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Rawn; their daughter, Mrs. Bigelow, and my wife and myself and our two children. There were also three servants in the house and the cook. Mrs. Rawn's maid and Mrs. Bigelow's maid. None of the rest of us heard the sound of the burglar."

Only one bullet took effect. The other went wild.

A half hour after the murder had been committed Pinkerton detectives and other private detectives were hired by the sons of the dead man.

"We will offer a reward," said Mr. Coburn, "and spare no expense to capture the assassin."

SYNOPSIS.

Andy Meelen, aged millionaire miner, is dying and orders a will drawn up, leaving all his property to the son of a sister of whom he has heard nothing for years, and whose married name he does not know. Meelen was married years before, but left his wife after a quarrel in which he struck her. He learned later that she and their daughter were dead. The scene shifts to New York, introducing Wilfrid Stennis, who is telling his fiancée, Eunice Trevecca, what he would do if he were the possessor of wealth. In the law office of Carby, Passavant & Cozine, attorneys for the estate of Meelen, Roger Hews reports the result of his search for heirs of Meelen. He conceals the fact that he has discovered that Meelen's daughter is living. Wilfrid Stennis replies to an advertisement for information concerning his dead mother, Martha Meelen, and is told that he is the heir to Andy Meelen's millions. He wants to marry Eunice at once, but she resolutely demurs. He meets Clara Passavant, frivolous daughter of his attorney. Eunice becomes jealous of Wilfrid's attentions to Clara. He builds a yacht and starts on a trip abroad. The Passavants being included in the party. Roger Hews, having discovered that Eunice Trevecca is the daughter of Andy Meelen, plans to use the information to his own advantage. He proposes to Eunice and is rejected. Jaded after two years of idleness in Europe, Wilfrid returns and immediately calls on Eunice. His attempt to renew his former relations with her meet with no encouragement. Roger Hews becomes Wilfrid's secretary. The engagement of Clara Passavant and Wilfrid is announced.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

The judicious Hews permitted a full day to intervene before following up the news with a call in Macdougall street. Now, if ever, he thought, the girl might be ready to listen to reason; he counted not a little upon Eunice's womanly plique and pride, which might tempt her to show the recalcitrant Wilfrid that two could play the same game, and that she was not the one to wear the willow for another woman's flance. Women—and men likewise—have been known to marry for spite and repent at leisure.

It was Roger's cue, as usual, to pretend to be wholly ignorant of the little tragedy going on behind the scenes. Eunice was totally unaware of the fact that he was in the employ of her old lover, and she thought she had sufficiently masked her own feelings.

When Hews came in that evening Eunice was alone, and intuitively felt that a crisis was impending. For millennial ages women have been pitting subtle wit against brute strength, developing a sixth sense which detects immediately and indubitably the benign or the malign designs of the opposite sex.

Tonight, however, she detected a tenseness of latent purpose in Roger Hews which doubtless he flattered himself was wholly hidden, and which certainly his first words did not reveal, for his talk was all about the great railroad strike then raging.

As the evening wore on, and John Trevecca failed to make his usual nine o'clock appearance, Hews inquired:

"I Am Not to Be Frightened or Black-mailed, Mr. Hews."

further disguise. "Why not make a clean breast of it, and confess that you are still infatuated with that upstart ass, Wilfrid Stennis! Where's all your maidenly pride? Don't you know that he belongs to another woman now?"

The girl winced at the cruel stab, at which evidence of the truth of his pitiful accusation Hews became even more frantic. His mask of quiet respectability was ruthlessly cast aside.

"He values you and your love about as much as one of his old shoes!" he spluttered coarsely. "He threw you over once before, and now he's done it again! He's nothing but a dirty impostor, anyway, and I'll show him up!"

Speech failed him, and he stood before her panting, choking, impotent.

Eunice Trevecca moved towards the door, and from the vantage of its opening looked him up and down in contemptuous scorn.

"I thank you, Mr. Hews," she said with cutting emphasis; "I have had a narrow escape, it seems!" and with these words she left the room.

CHAPTER IX.

The preparations for the Stennis-Passavant wedding went on apace. Theirs was to be only a six-weeks' engagement, for Lent had just come in when the fateful words were spoken which in a measure set the crown of success upon the maneuvers of Mistress Clara.

Did she love Wilfrid? In the light of events it seems extremely doubtful; that she liked and admired him we have seen; in her eyes marriage was more a matter of creature comfort than of love pure and undiluted—but little better than a social compact, in fact; so much beauty, so much refinement, so much good birth and position in exchange for so many millions of dollars.

If the possessor of the millions happened to be a very passable and presentable sort of a fellow, why, all the better. In common with nearly every other woman, Clara Passavant shone at her best during these glamorous weeks, and Wilfrid was happy—or told himself that he ought to be.

But in reality what he regarded as happiness was only a dreamy sort of nepenthe—he guessed he had done the right thing—the thing that was expected of him by Clara and all her friends. The rest didn't matter. In fact, he told himself, nothing mattered very much now that Eunice had taken herself out of his career.

The penitential season was more than half over, and there lacked but two short weeks of the wedding day, when Roger Hews fired his mine. Patient as a ferret, he bided his time; he had scored one failure; in this second attempt to use his power there must be no mishap or miscarriage. According to custom, he waited upon Stennis immediately after breakfast to open the mail and receive his instructions for the day.

The usual routine was gone through, and Wilfrid was about to start for his morning gallop with his fiancée in the park when the secretary spoke:

"Can you give me your attention for a few minutes, Mr. Stennis?"

"Anything important?" quoth Wilfrid. "Can't you let it lie over? I have an appointment at 11."

"It is most important, and it can't lie over!" said Hews truculently. Stennis eyed the man curiously; the tone verging upon the insolent, his first thought was that the immaculate Roger had been imbibing too freely. But a second glance showed that he was apparently perfectly sober.

"Well, well, man, get at it then—I am in a hurry!" exclaimed Wilfrid testily.

"Better sit down," said Hews with easy familiarity. "With your permission I'll order the horse back to the stable; I don't think you'll want to ride to-day."

So saying, he stepped to the phone and coolly gave the necessary instructions. Stennis, with one glove on, stood, riding-whip in hand, in dumb amazement at the consummate impudence of the man. It was a novel and not very agreeable experience. Hews, in return, scrutinized his employer with a provokingly cool stare, an unpleasant leer on his thin lips.

"Your manners are confoundingly unpleasant this morning, Mr. Hews," said Wilfrid, frowning the stock of his whip nervously. There was something covertly venomous in the attitude assumed by his secretary which made him itch to lay the heavy lash about his shoulders, as one would chastise an unruly dog.

"D'yer think so?" said the other, in the most offensive tone he could muster. "I guess you'll find what I've got to say all less to y'r liking."

"That's impossible to decide as long as you sit there gibbering!" retorted Wilfrid, who was fast losing patience. Hews snorted.

"You've had a pretty good time these three years past, haven't you?" he queried.

Stennis made no reply.

"Yes, you've had things altogether y'r own way, spending money right and left and livin' on the fat of the land."

Still no answer.

"And now y're going to get spliced, and live in a fine house, after jilting the poor girl y' once promised to marry!"

"That's an infernal lie, whoever told you so!" Wilfrid whipped out, stung at last into angry speech.

"Is it? Well, this what I'm going to tell y' is no lie—y' hear me? Y've got no more right to Andrew Meelen's millions than I have!"

Stennis started as though he had been bitten in the heel by an adder, but he controlled his voice admirably.

"Oblige me by saying that over again," he answered quietly.

"I tell yer that y've been spending money that doesn't belong to yer—not a single, solitary red cent of it. Y're no more the rightful heir of Andy Meelen than I am! Is that plain enough?"

Wilfrid stepped to the door, locked it, and put the key in his pocket.

"If you are sane and sober, you'll understand that you cannot leave this room until you have proved every word—or taken the consequences," Stennis, shaking the heavy riding-quirt suggestively.

"Oh, I know what I'm talking about," rejoined Hews airily; "my facts are all O. K."

"Let me have the facts then—not mere windy assertions," retorted the other. "I am not to be frightened or blackmailed, Mr. Hews."

Usurer in High Society.

Frank Marshall White contributes to Harper's Weekly an account of the methods of money lenders on both sides of the Atlantic. The loan sharks who exploit the poor in America are represented in England, says the author, by usurers who prey upon post obits and delayed inheritances. Of such a type was the celebrated Sam Lewis, who actually forced his way into good society by virtue of his hold over the aristocracy. "Everybody in London knew Lewis. Was there a charity bazaar, for instance, where ladies of title were selling boutonnieres and ices, or beautiful actresses mixing drinks? There was Lewis paying the highest price for everything in sight. Was royalty laying the corner stone of a hospital or asylum, to which ceremony the subscribers to the erection fund had been invited? Lewis stepped to the crimson carpet across the sidewalk from the tallest landau, with the biggest horses and the most stately coachman."

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD
LIGHT AND VENTILATION

One of Common Errors in Building Stables Is Failure to Provide Windows and Ventilators in Sufficient Numbers.

One of the common errors in building stables is to fail to provide windows and ventilators in sufficient numbers. In the cheaper barns it is the light especially that is usually left out of the calculation. This is one of the most serious mistakes when we stop to think of how cheap light really is and how valuable it is as a germicide.

Many of the diseases of our live stock may be attributed to germs. Tuberculosis is caused by specific germs. The myriads of germs that escape from tubercular animals confined in a barn are disseminated through the stables, and sunlight is a factor in the destruction of these germs. In fact light destroys much germ life. Aside from the health standpoint good light in the stables makes work more pleasant and provides greater comfort for the farm animals.

Why not have the barn as light as the parlors of the farm house? It

In the summer windows and doors may be left open, but in the winter time it is quite different. Inlet pipes for fresh air should be constructed as well as proper outlets for carrying off odors and bad air.

Ventilators should be distributed about the barn instead of relying upon one or two large ones far apart. The idea should be to equalize the ventilation so that the entire stable admits of proper ventilation.

Statistics show that the amount of pure air breathed by different animals during a period of 24 hours in order to supply oxygen needed is as follows: The horse requires 3,401 cubic feet; the cow 2,804 cubic feet; the pig 1,203 cubic feet. Thus it will seem that the horse will draw into and force out of his lungs each hour on an average 142 cubic feet of air; the cow 117 cubic feet; the pig 46 cubic feet; the sheep 30 cubic feet; the hen 1.2 cubic feet. It is therefore very costs but a few dollars more if the windows are provided when the building is being constructed. Judgment, however, should be exercised in putting in windows in the right place. A uniform light should be provided in all parts of the stable.

The furnishing of light is an important one in the construction of any farm building and it is not hard to obtain if a little forethought is exercised. However, with ventilation it is different because considerable planning must be required when building to insure an ample supply of fresh air in the barn at all seasons of the year. It is important to have fresh air in the barn during cold weather and at the same time avoid draughts.

Important that our ventilation in our modern farm buildings should be provided with plenty of fresh air at all times in order to contribute to the health of the live stock.

With the outlet pipes it is not necessary to have more than one or two—often one is sufficient, depending of course upon the size of the barn.

As an easy way out of the difficulty we would suggest to our readers that they make a ground plan of their buildings giving exact dimensions as to height, width, length of building and submit it to manufacturers of ventilating apparatus, and ask for an estimate on the cost of installing a perfect ventilating system.

VARIETIES OF TAME GRASSES

Careful Study Will Disclose Fact That Flocks and Herds Thrive Better on Mixture Than on One Kind.

(By S. M. MILLER.)

There is no one matter connected with good farm management that is more deserving of more careful attention than the growing of tame grasses, and the maintaining of the productive capacity of our permanent pasture land. The successful grass grower needs to have a practical understanding of all the species of tame grasses that we grow and cultivate on our farms as well as a knowledge of their requirements and conditions that are essential to their growth. Much of the success and many times all of the profits of our farms are directly dependent upon the amount and quality of hay and forage produced.

A cause of the inferiority of our meadow lands is the fact that they are supporting numerous useless weeds.

If we could rid our meadows of this pest it would add millions of dollars to the pockets of our farmers. How can it be done? By thorough tillage? By the use of more grass seed? Most emphatically no. That would be in direct opposition to the laws of nature.

We may prepare the soil in the best possible manner and sow on clover and timothy so thick that the grass will come up as thick as the hair on a dog and in some places we will yet find that the young plants will die out and their places be filled with noxious weeds.

These interspaces may be filled ever so often with fresh seed and the result will be similar which is conclusive evidence that every soil has a capacity for supporting a certain number of one kind of plants and it will produce no more than that number of that variety no matter how well it is filled or how many are germinated on that particular soil.

When we fill these interspaces between the plants with another species of grass a certain lot of its plants will grow and the rest will die soon after they have germinated.

The ones that grow will not interfere with the other varieties and the yield will be increased.

Practical experience has shown us that any soil will be more certain to yield larger and better crops of forage and hay when it is seeded with mixed grasses than when sown to clover and timothy alone.

Our flocks and herds will thrive better when fed on mixed grasses, (no matter whether in a green condition or cured for hay) than they will when fed on any one or two varieties sowed alone, no matter how nutritious these grasses may be.

We will find it in every way as important to balance our forage rations as it is the grain rations if we obtain the best results from a minimum amount of feed.

EXCELLENT BERKSHIRE BOAR

The Berkshire shown in the illustration, while a large, vigorous animal, is not the best type of the breed. His ears are a little too coarse and his nose is somewhat too long. He has, however, excellent bone and brings good, healthy pigs. He is used on a grade herd to produce market hogs and gives the best of satisfaction.

SOFT, WHITE HANDS

May Be Obtained in One Night.

For preserving the hands as well as for preventing redness, roughness, and chapping, and imparting that velvety softness and whiteness much desired by women Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, is believed to be superior to all other skin soaps. For those who work in corrosive liquids, or at occupations which tend to injure the hands, it is invaluable.

Treatment—Bathe and soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment, and in severe cases spread the Cuticura Ointment on thin pieces of old linen or cotton. Wear during the night old, loose gloves, or a light bandage of old cotton or linen to protect the clothing from stain. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, and shapeless nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is most effective. Cuticura Remedies are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., sole proprietors, Boston, Mass.

Autoing and Optics.

"Is not auto driving terribly hard on the eyes?" we asked.

"Well, I guess not," replied the chauffeur, withering us with scorn. "Why, before I got to runnin' a car I was thinkin' o' gettin' specks, my eyesight was that poor I couldn't see the contribution box in church until it was so near past me it was too late to dig for any money. But I hadn't been runnin' that wagon two days till I could see a policeman's little fingers stickin' out from behind a tree four miles away. I could even see which way a copper's eyeballs were turned if he was standin' in the shade three miles off. Hard on the eyes! Well, not much! It's the best medicine for weak eyes that was ever invented. don't you forget it."

His Claim to Prominence.

At a social gathering a certain man, intent on knowing every one, was introduced to Senator Julius C. Burrows of Michigan.

"The name Burrows is very familiar to me," he said. "I am certain that you are a man of some prominence."

"Yes," replied Senator Burrows, "I am the man that 'died at first' just before Casey came to bat in that celebrated ball game in Mudville."—Success Magazine.

HARD TO PLEASE

Regarding the Morning Cup.

"Oh how hard it was to part with coffee, but the continued trouble with constipation and belching was such that I finally brought myself to leave it off."

"Then the question was, what should we use for the morning drink? Tea was worse for us than coffee; chocolate and cocoa were soon tired of; milk was not liked very well, and hot water we could not endure."

"About two years ago we struck upon Postum and have never been without it since."

"We have seven children. Our baby now eighteen months old would not take milk, so we tried Postum and found she liked it and it agreed with her perfectly. She is today, and has been, one of the healthiest babies in the State."

"I use about two-thirds Postum and one-third milk and a teaspoon of sugar, and put it into her bottle. If you could have seen her eyes sparkle and hear her say 'good' today when I gave it to her, you would believe me that she likes it."

"If I was matron of an infants' home, every child would be raised on Postum. Many of my friends say, 'You are looking so well!' I reply, 'I am well; I drink Postum. I have no more trouble with constipation, and know that I owe my good health to God and Postum.'"

"I am writing this letter because I want to tell you how much good Postum has done us, but if you know how I shrink from publicity, you would not publish this letter, at least not over my name."

The SPIRIT of the WEST

Wonderful Development Since Dawn of Irrigation

By C. J. BLANCHARD
U. S. Reclamation Service

He spirit of the west is optimism and progress. It is the spirit that fired the hearts of our forefathers who erected in the primeval forests of New England the superstructure of the greatest nation on earth. It is the optimism and faith which imbued their descendants who carved an agricultural empire of unparalleled richness from the Mississippi valley.

Once a wilderness so unpromising that it evoked derision in the halls of congress, the west has become today the land of fortune and opportunity. In this land of boundless distances the altitude is stimulating, the air is a tonic, giving health to the infirm and courage to those who have failed elsewhere. Its constant sunshine encourages optimism and cheerfulness. The glories of its opal-tinted dawns, the indescribable beauty of its sunsets and the nameless witchery of its twilight softly melting into night are the work of a divine painter.

There is a mental and spiritual uplift in its mountains, whose summits are in regions of perpetual snow. Its sapphire lakes, excelling in beauty those of Switzerland, open up a wondrous field of interest and pleasure to the sightseer and those in search of rest and recreation. The monarchs of its forests cast their shadows on the earth before the coming of the gentle Nazarene.

Its canons, sculptured during uncounted centuries by wind and wave, are unrivaled in their wonderful and varied coloring and in their awe-inspiring depths. Its deserts, in vastness of area, in potential wealth of soil and climate, and in rivers of constant supply, are sleeping empires awaiting exploitation and development. Here nature offers to every man his birthright—a wide sky, the sunshine, the wind, and a sure reward for intelligent effort. Here things are writ in characters too vast for human pen.

The late Gov. John A. Johnson well said the west symbolizes "homes for the homeless, food for the hungry, work for the unemployed, land for the landless, gold for the penniless, freedom for the enslaved, adventure for the restless, dangers for the brave, an unknown world to conquer, and room for all."

Irrigation has wrought its miracle and 13,000,000 acres reclaimed are annually producing harvests valued at more than $250,000,000 and supporting in homes of their own more than 300,000 families. The wealth of that portion of the country which great statesmen in Webster's day were wont to declare worthless is greater now than that of the entire nation in 1860.

In the swift march of national events during the past decade, the development of the west has focused the attention of the world. It furnishes one of the most inspiring pages in the annals of our commonwealth. It is a story of progress and human achievement—a battle with nature in her sternest and most forbidding aspect.

Future writers will record the irrigation movement as an epoch in our history; the far-reaching influence of which overshadowed in importance any other progressive movement since the opening to settlement of the Mississippi valley. The reclamation of vast areas of our arid and semi-arid regions, which is being promoted by the federal government and by large corporations working in conjunction with several states, is of profound economic importance to the nation.

The additional opportunities thus created for home makers are already serving to check the undesirable efflux of the country people to the city. Millions of acres of desert, un-leached by rain and storing in its bosom the fertility gathered there by centuries of washings from hills and mountains, are being quickened by life-giving water.

Cities, populous and great, have sprung up; rural communities, attractive and prosperous, broad vistas of fertile fields and blossoming orchards whose yields are prolific beyond comparison, replace the wastes of sand and sage brush.

Economic forces are at work today in the country, and particularly in the arid west, which are gradually but surely shaping our agricultural development along new lines. In many parts of the irrigated country agriculture now occupies a position of greater dignity among the vocations than ever before. Its place among the scientific professions is now recognized and it is calling more strongly every day for the best talent and brains the nation affords.

GREATEST PROJECT OF THE RECLAMATION SERVICE,
RIO GRANDE VALLEY,
NEW MEXICO

LOOKING DOWN INTO TETON CANYON,
YAKIMA PROJECT, WASHINGTON

A FAMILIAR TYPE: THE OPTIMISTIC
PROSPECTOR

The reclamation service began its work in 1902 on the passage of the reclamation act. The first contract was let in September of the next year and, on June 17, 1905, an important project in Nevada was formally opened.

Progress has been rapid and the activities of the bureau have been extended to 26 or more projects, which to date have involved the expenditure of $60,000,000. In the seven and one-half years of its work the service has built 4,215 miles of canal. Placed end to end, these canals would reach from Washington to San Francisco and back to New Orleans. Several of these canals carry whole rivers.

It has excavated 17 miles of tunnels. Before the end of the year it will have completed four of the highest dams in the world. Its excavations of rock and earth amount to the enormous total of 60,000,000 cubic yards.

Its roads have a total length of 417 miles; telephones, 1,127 miles; levees, 70 miles.

It has purchased 915,751 barrels of cement and has manufactured in its own mill 340,000 barrels. As a result of its work water is available for 750,000 acres on 13,000 farms.

The gross value of crops produced on the lands irrigated by the government projects in 1910 was $14,038,000. As a result of the work of the government it is estimated that land values have increased more than $105,800,000.

The reclamation service is entering 1910 with money and plans for completing most of its larger and unfinished masonry structures and with about three-quarters of a million of acres of arid land under irrigation.

It will finish this year the great Roosevelt dam in Arizona, one of the most massive in the world. It has completed the Shoshone dam, in northern Wyoming, the highest structure of its kind ever built; the Pathfinder dam, in southern Wyoming, and the Laguna dam, in Arizona. It will for the first time utilize the Gunnison tunnel, whose completion was celebrated by President Taft last summer.

The funds available for construction are somewhat less than in previous years, and the organization, which is very elastic, has been cut down to fit reduced expenditures. About fifty skilled men—engineers, experts and technical assistants—have either sought private employment, have been transferred to other bureaus of the government or put on furlough, in order to keep the overhead charges consistent with the expenditures.

Reviewing the history of the reclamation service as a whole, its maximum activity and expenditures were in the year 1907. In 1902 the expenditures were less than $100,000, and in 1903 less than $1,000,000. In 1904 they were $2,500,000; in 1905, $5,000,000; in 1906, a little less than $10,000,000; in 1907, nearly $14,000,000. Then the expenditures decreased to $10,000,000 in 1908, to about $9,000,000 in 1909, and in 1910 they will be a little under $8,000,000. It is expected that in 1911 they will shrink to about $7,000,000, which sum will probably continue to be available during after years, assuming that the water-right charges are paid as they fall due.

This is the most critical period in the history of national irrigation since the passage of the reclamation act, in 1902. By public notices of the secretary of the interior, issued last year, hundreds of water-right installments, involving approximately $1,000,000, became due on April 1, 1910. That date is a memorable one, not only to the settlers, whose entries are liable to cancellation for failure to make the payments due, but also to the reclamation service, which is concerned in securing the return of its investment in the engineering works. It is also a matter of interest to citizens of the number of sections containing feasible projects, the construction of which cannot be undertaken without additional funds. As the repayments are made through the local land offices and not directly to the service, some time must elapse before the actual amounts collected are known. On a number of the projects, like Sun River, Shoshone and Huntley, the settlers have already made their initial payments and will not be delinquent on the second installment until April, 1911, which enables them to market two crops between payments. On several other projects, such as the Minidoka, Klamath, Lower Yellowstone, Belle Fourche, Carlsbad, Truckee-Carson, North Platte and others, the first settlers have had the use of water for two crops, and it is probable that a majority will be able to meet their obligations without difficulty.

Detailed reports from various sources on each of the projects have been received at Washington. The conditions as a whole are described as favorable for a large return to the reclamation fund. On several of the projects there will be no delinquents. On a number of projects the engineering work is not fully completed, but water is ready for large areas and is being supplied on a rental basis pending the announcement of the actual cost of water right. The reclamation service has derived considerable revenue from these sources and at the same time the farmers have been enabled to increase the areas in cultivation. The following financial statement is interesting as showing the status of the reclamation fund and the amounts which thus far have been credited to it through the operations of the reclamation service:

Total moneys received and transferred to the reclamation fund from sales of public lands under reclamation act to February 28, 1910, $58,342,617.02. Approximately $4,500,000 are still in the treasury of the United States, but not yet available.

Moneys received under operations of reclamation act from all sources in cash and credits, for work done, $2,379,475.04, divided as follows: Town-lot sales, $103,673.91; miscellaneous ous sales, water rentals, etc., $1,694,844.77; collections on water rights, $814,145.34. This does not include any of the moneys collected for the water rights which were due and payable April 1, 1910.

Among the several large projects, one of especial interest is located in northern Wyoming. When the springtime showers and sunshine fall upon the snowy peaks of the lofty mountains on the eastern rim of Yellowstone park a thousand streams will rush downward to fill to brimming the swift-flowing Shoshone river. An important physical change will occur at that time. The flood that once, unchecked and uncontrolled, swept madly through the rock-walled gorge will beat itself to stillness against a massive wall of concrete with which man has blocked the canon. A beautiful lake, 100 feet deep and covering ten square miles, will appear.

In this wonderful gash in the mountains, with perpendicular walls a thousand feet high, the government has erected the highest dam in the world. It is a wedge of concrete 328 feet from base to top. Its height can only be appreciated when compared with that of some well-known structure. New York's famous Flatiron building would not reach within 47 feet of the top of the dam, and the tip-top of the dome of the United States capitol would fall short 21 feet of the parapet.

In the summer, when the crops are thirsty, the big gates will be opened and the pent-up floods will be released into the river below.

Another dam, a low structure of concrete, will divert the waters through a tunnel 3 1/4 miles long into a canal which for 40 miles passes along the upper edge of a broad and fertile valley containing 150,000 acres.

Two years ago it was a desolate waste. Today it contains more than 200 farm houses and three thriving towns. Ten thousand acres produced crops last year on this project. With 16 farm houses along each mile of the main highways, the valley already has a suburban appearance.

More than 250 farm units of 40 to 80 acres each are now available to entry and offer exceptional opportunities for men of moderate means to secure homes in a prosperous and growing country.

Close to the Black Hills, in South Dakota, lies the beautiful valley of Belle Fourche, containing 100,000 acres of grass-covered prairie. Many miles of canals have been laid across its level surface, and what was only a short time ago the finest free cattle range in this country is rapidly becoming a compactly settled agricultural community.

An impressive engineering feature of this project is the Owl Creek dam, one of the longest and highest earthen embankments in the world. This structure, now nearing completion, is 6,200 feet long, has a maximum height of 115 feet and contains 1,600,000 cubic yards of material.

The Roosevelt dam, which is about completed as you read the story today, is in many respects the most remarkable structure of its kind in the world. Its towering height, 230 feet, its length on top, 1,080 feet, the inspiring scenery in which it is located and the enormous capacity of the reservoir created by its combine to make it one of the most stupendous engineering works of modern times.

Conceive, if you can, two valleys—one 12 miles, the other 15 miles in length, and each from one to three miles wide—transformed into a lake 200 feet deep in places and containing enough water to cover Delaware a foot deep.

The Salt River reservoir, when full, has a capacity sufficient to fill a canal 300 feet wide and 19 feet deep extending from Chicago to San Francisco.

My one regret is that the space allotted me is too little to permit me to describe the charms and advantages of other projects of the government. I should like to tell you of the opportunities on the Klamath project, located in southern Oregon, in a region of unrivaled scenic beauty; of the wonderful progress made in the Boise valley, in Idaho, and the promise of even greater advance as the work of the government nears completion; of the Orland project, in the Sacramento valley, the land of fruits and flowers; of the Rio Grande valley, where there will one day be erected the most stupendous dam in the west—a region in which irrigation began before the Spanish invasion, which will become fruitful and prosperous.

The beacon of hope shines brightly in the west. It beckons the landless man to the marvellous land.

ROUTT COUNTY, COLORADO, LAND BOOM PREDICTED.

Keen observers predict a big boom in property in Routt County, Colorado, the new town which is being built in the center of the Little Snake River Valley in Routt County, Colorado. A big irrigation system is being built to irrigate 60,000 acres of very fine land surrounding Wantland. The land is being sold by the State of Colorado for 50 cents per acre, under the Carey Act, and water rights cost $35.00 an acre, in ten year payments. Sugar factories, flour mills, canneries, etc., are among the possible industries to be located at Wantland. Full information can be obtained from the Routt County Colonization Company, 1734 Welton St., Denver, Colo.

Joe Cannon in Kansas is making speeches that makes the sun flower quit its job and look his way.

How does Foss now stand on the waterways question? Is any free born American citizen rude enough to ask him?

If those woman suffragists in the go car didn't get liberty in Libertyville, that they struck it, where will they get it?

A woman in Waukegan killed herself because her husband was a socialist. Things like that don't happen in Milwaukee.

Voliva is now the whole thing. He has got a chance but it is a safe bet that he will never make old Elijah look like a piker.

Bryan says the brewers defeated him in the last election. His son seemed to have no fear of them. He married a girl from Milwaukee.

A man from Lake county has been selected by the King of Norway as his personal advisor. Thus do we dominate where we little suspect.

Late reports from the windy city have it that Deneen and Busse are now sitting in the same pew. Will they rise and sing together, that is the question.

"I would rather be a patriot than a pirate" is the way a Chicago Democrat puts it. Who wouldn't, in Chicago? Look what Fisher gets out of the patriot end.

"Jim Ham" Lewis the tonsorial celebrity of Chicago announces that he is still on the fence as to whether Roger Sullivan is a saint or a satyr. Why split hairs?

Kahlsaat of the "Record-Herald" is devoting columns of laudation to Victor Lawson of the "Chicago News" Why shouldn't he—Lawson owns the "Record-Herald."

Woodstock has trunedout a whole lot of fellows who can go some in a political sense, but Mr. Conn is certainly showing some of the oldest timers in that habitat a few things.

A stitch in time saves nine but it would take a hundred and nine if we pass up the stitch that will make some of those Waukegan candidates see that we are on earth, right now.

Editor Moran of the Belvidere Republican has our compliments. He rests up long enough from the job of postmaster to declare that Marengo has the man of the hour in Northern Illinois.

Now that it has been discovered that ice cream cones are made from the decayed feet of dead camels, or something very like that, let us boil them before partaking as they do the water in Waukegan.

The waterways $20,000,000 graft is the biggest issue coming in the state of Illinois. The biggest man in front of it, trying to head it off is Shurtleff. We need him back in the legislature and he will hang its hide on the fence.

We are sorry with Waukegan that her school census only shows some odd sixteen thousand and to think that if it wasn't for this consarned race suicide business she would be over twenty thousand, hence our mourning in a deeper black.

Burns of Belvidere our minority state representative is out for woman suffrage. If he was a ladies' tailor we could understand but being a merchant of men's clothing we cannot see where it is going to help him any, unless he expects to be there with the goods when women "wear the pants."

The Waukegan Gazette in summing its editorial in favor of woman suffrage says, "Take it home—wouldn't you give more for the opinion (vote) of your wife or mother than you would for the average foreigner's?" That sounds all right but how about the wives and mothers of the foreigners? They would be in on the game then too.

The situation in the Democratic party in this district is rather striking, as Mr. Burns of Boone, Mr. Hayes of McHenry and Mr. Lynch of Lake are candidates for minority representative, and one Democrat of this village put it this way when asked as to the probable result: "It will be a Lynching, a Burning or a Hazing," so it is bound to be a red hot fight.

An old St. Louis river captain has declared that fourteen feet or forty will never make river commerce profitable any more. If they can't make anything out of it down at St. Louis, where in the name of our most martyred saint are we going to get anything out of it, high and dry up here in Lake or McHenry counties as far as a Deneen tear way goes?

With the countless charges of boodley, possible and impossible, that are being forced upon us these days you will notice that no one, no matter how irresponsible, intimates that there was a dollar involved when Ed. Shurtleff was made Speaker of the House. This is a striking and further a complimentary fact when the conditions are remembered under which our representative was selected for that high office.

Our innocent and unsophisticated governor who unconsciously several years ago copped off a hundred or two thousand dollars as extra fees while a state's attorney has met with another one of those moral crises that few men, wholly good, wish to experience. He has been brought face to face with the possibility that moving pictures of a boxing match may be exhibited in Illinois. All we can say in comfort at such a time as this is that, Job had his.

Who Shall It Be

Much has been said about the candidates who are running for the office of county clerk of Lake county' Lew A. Hendee, H. H. Ferry and Miles T. Lamey.

Many claim that Mr. Hendee is the most logical candidate because of his familiarity with the office and his many years of experience as deputy county clerk. This of course is a very good thing to have, but the other candidates, while they may not have had the experience in this one office, are nevertheless just as capable of discharging the duties pertaining to the office as he and with experience will become as efficient.

Miles T. Lamey is the editor of the Barrington Review, and is well thought of in his home town and throughout the county, while Hiram H. Ferry is an upright, honest farmer-business man of Benton township where his neighbors are going to be with him.

The people are to decide at the primaries who is their choice for this important office and we shall endeavor to keep them informed as to the merits and demerits of the candidates for all the county offices as the time for the primaries draw near.

CANNON COLLAPSES

SPEAKER'S MIND CLOUDS NEAR THE CLOSE OF KANSAS ADDRESS.

REVIVES, THANKS AUDITORS

Defends Tariff, Attacks Press and Takes Fling at "Insurgents"—Heat Overcomes "Uncle Joe," But Recoveries and Makes Second Address.

Winfield, Kan.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon collapsed Saturday afternoon while delivering a speech which he had prepared, attacking the Insurgents in congress before the Winfield chautauqua.

Prompt aid prevented him from fainting, but he was unable to continue his address, and, speaking with the greatest difficulty, he begged the audience to excuse him.

The intense heat affected him, and brought on the sudden sinking spell. Ice water and fresh air partially revived him, and he haltingly thanked the audience for listening to him for so great a length of time. Then he was led away by his friends and taken to the home of J. T. Lafferty, where he was a guest.

Accompanied by Congressman Philip Campbell, and declaring he was "not a bit sick," Mr. Cannon departed later for Arkansas City, where Saturday evening he delivered a brief speech. The speaker had recovered from his collapse and insisted upon making the trip.

Dr. L. A. Tarabus pronounced Mr. Cannon's heart action good and said he probably would suffer no further ill effects.

Speaker Cannon's physicians urged him to abandon his Kansas speaking tour. The speaker, however, is determined to continue it as he feels that the collapse was due only to the excessively warm weather.

Mr. Cannon said that after speaking at Emporia he would fill two other dates as scheduled, after which the condition of the weather and his health would determine his future actions.

"Discontent of a people," said Speaker Cannon, in his address here, "is not measured by complaints in the press. It is measured in a more significant manner and makes more indelible impression, than that of a penny paper bought, perused, thrown away and forgotten."

"The pocket nerve is one of the most sensitive nerves in our civilization, and that nerve always is the first affected by any general discontent or want of confidence."

"The pocket nerve" was never in better condition than it is today, and that is the real evidence of confidence on the part of the American people in the economic policies of the government."

Speaker Cannon declared the opponents of protection have misrepresented the tariff, lied about its schedules and resorted to every conceivable trick to keep the tariff in politics.

"The demagogue," said he, "may pick out an item here and there and say that duties are too high, but the law is to be tested by all its provisions and not by an isolated item here and there."

Mr. Cannon denounced the Insurgents in congress and paid his respects to Senator Bristow, declaring the latter was seeking notoriety.

Somewhat in the way of a reply to an address made by Senator Bristow in Winfield a week ago, Speaker Cannon disputed the statements made by the Kansan emphatically. Mr. Bristow had made sensational charges concerning the rubber schedule of the tariff bill.

WOMAN SLAYS GAME WARDEN

Confesses She Killed John O'Connor Because He Tried to Break Up Her Home.

Springfield, Ill.—Mrs. Frank Stout confessed that she had fired the shot which resulted in the death of Deputy State Warden Game John O'Connor.

Mrs. Stout is in jail here and will be held to await the action of the grand jury without bond. The woman appeared before the coroner's jury Sunday at her own request.

O'Connor was shot Friday night at his home by some one who fired through an open door. In an ante-mortem statement he declared that Frank Stout had threatened to kill him, but Stout, when arrested, proved an alibi. Later Mrs. Stout was arrested and, in her confession, declared O'Connor had annoyed her and "had tried to break up her home."

The woman admitted while on the witness stand that she telephoned O'Connor a few days before his death and asked him if he intended to quit coming to her home. This admission is taken by authorities to mean that the woman was in love with O'Connor and that jealousy may have prompted her in her act.

Baseball Magnate Expires. Rockford, Ill.—James P. Walsh, principal owner of the Rockford franchise in the Wisconsin-Illinois league, died Saturday of Bright's disease and complications. The deceased, since 1908, has been identified with the national game in Rockford.

PRESIDENT ON YACHT CRUISE

WILL MAKE SEVERAL SPEECHES IN MAINE CAMPAIGN.

Is Expected to Sound Administration Keynote in His Utterances—Accompanied by Family.

Beverly, Mass.—President Taft, his family and other members of his household, boarded the yacht Mayflower Monday afternoon and at three o'clock the vessel weighed anchor and steamed away for a cruise up the coast of Maine that will last eight days. Included in the party are Mrs. Taft and her sister, Mrs. Louise More of Cincinnati, Miss Helen Taft, Charlie Taft, Secretary Norton and Mrs. Norton and Capt. A. W. Butts.

Former Governor Hill of Maine, who is also the nominal head of the Republican national committee, in company with Bryan Boyd of Augusta, had a conference with the president at Burgess Point prior to his departure, at which they induced him to make a few brief speeches on the trip. The first will be made at Eastport, where the president spent an hour on Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday will find him at Bar Harbor, where he will spend a couple of days, but on Saturday he will resume his travels again and will speak in Bangor. That night he will return to Ellsworth and spend the night at the home of Senator Hale.

On Sunday the Mayflower will again be under way, sailing to Islesboro and cruising in Casco bay until time to make Biddeford pool on the 27th, where Mrs. Louise More, sister of Mrs. Taft, will go ashore.

In his speeches the president is expected to sound the keynote for the congressional campaign. He will not speak in advocacy of any particular candidate. His remarks will be general in their nature and confined to an exposition of the good work of the Republican party in the congressional session which recently came to an end.

From these speeches the party orators throughout the country will get their inspiration for the weeks and months of talking that are to come between now and the November elections.

Before leaving Beverly President Taft dispatched a message to the emperor of Japan expressive of his appreciation of the welcome that has been accorded Secretary of War Dickinson in the island empire and heartily seconding the sentiments of Japanese statesmen regarding friendly relations between Japan and the United States.

PITTMAN IS FOUND STARVING

Nicaragua President Reported to Have Badly Mistreated American Prisoner—Creates Reign of Terror.

Washington.—The United States must soon intervene in Nicaragua or allow peace to be effected there by England and Germany.

Unmistakable significance attaches to important reports from its diplomatic representatives in Nicaragua to the state department Thursday showing that Madriz has produced intentionally a reign of terror in the western half of Nicaragua, in which four-fifths of the white people of that republic live.

The dispatches show that William Pittman, an American prisoner in the hands of Madriz, was inhumanly treated by starvation and other privations since he left Greytown on July 4 on his way to Managua.

When he was put in prison in Managua it was in a "filthy cell," five feet by six and there again he was starved. A prompt protest from Consul Ollivares at Managua secured the transfer of Pittman to a better cell and the United States is furnishing the money to feed him properly, and it is also furnishing the money to take care of the relatives in Nicaragua of the murdered Groce.

The more serious aspect of the general situation is that citizens of Germany and Great Britain are protesting against the reign of terror in western Nicaragua. Nicaraguans openly make threats against the lives of American citizens and there is nothing to prevent an immediate outbreak of street murders, arson, robberies, etc., which will involve all foreign residents in Nicaragua.

COL. GUFFEY EMBARRASSED

Business Affairs of Democratic Leader of Pennsylvania Are Placed in Hands of Receiver.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The business affairs of Col. James M. Guffey, Democratic leader of Pennsylvania, member of the Democratic national committee and one of the best known oil and coal men of the entire country, were placed in the hands of a receiver Friday.

The assets of Colonel Guffey are estimated at $17,000,000, his liabilities at less than $7,000,000. Inability to realize on his assets, which consist largely of coal lands in West Virginia, is said to be the reason for Mr. Guffey's embarrassment.

Receivers for Jones Bros. Kansas City, Mo.—Receivers for the Jones Brothers Mercantile company, a mail order house, were appointed by the federal court here Saturday. The liabilities and the assets are each placed at $600,000.

Mrs. Hartje Given Divorce. Pittsburg, Pa.—A decree of absolute divorce was granted Saturday to Mary Scott Hartje from Augustus Hartje, the millionaire paper manufacturer of Pittsburg, by Judge Frazer in common pleas court.

AVIATION'S DEATH TOLL GROWS

ERBSLOEH AND FOUR COMPANIONS KILLED IN PRUSSIA.

Winner of St. Louis Balloon Race Perishes in Accident—Rolls Loses Life in England.

Leichlinger, Rhenish Prussia.—Oscar Erbsloeh, the German aeronaut who won the international balloon race at St. Louis in 1907, and four companions were killed Wednesday when the dirigible balloon Erbsloeh burst at a height of several hundred feet and dropped to the earth a crumpled mass.

The Dead. Oscar Erbsloeh, inventor and balloonist.

Herr Toelle, a manufacturer of Bremen.

Engineer Kranz. Engineer Hoeppe. Motorman Spicke.

The craft was of the nonrigid type, 176 feet in length and 33 feet in diameter. The motors were of 125 horsepower and drove the airship at a speed of 28½ miles an hour.

The war department recently purchased one of Erbsloeh's balloons. The cause of the accident is a matter of conjecture, but it is believed that the bursting of the bag was due to the expansion of gas by the warm sunshine.

Bournemouth, England.—Hon. Charles Stewart Rolls, third son of Lord Llangattock and one of the most daring and skillful of British aviators, who recently made a flight from Dover to France and return, met a most tragic death at the close of the first flying machine tournament of the year in England Tuesday.

In the presence of a great company of spectators, a majority of whom were women and children, and many personal friends of the young aviator, the Wright biplane on which he was flying fell suddenly with terrific speed from a height of 100 feet.

It struck the ground close to the crowded grand stand, smashed into a tangled mass, and before the doctors and their assistants could reach the spot Rolls was dead.

PORTLAND SWEEP BY FIRE

Ten Acres in Oregon City in Waste—Two Men and 150 Horses Die.

Portland, Ore.—Two lives at least were lost, scores of persons were injured, 150 horses burned to death and damage amounting to half a million wrought in a fire on the edge of the business district here Thursday. The athletic field of the famous Multnomah Athletic club was swept by the flames and the magnificent grand stand destroyed.

The dead are: F. R. Price, foreman of the United Cattle company stable, and a helper whose name is Prude. Several of the stable employees are reported to be missing.

The fire is believed to have started in the salesroom of the Oregon Brush company.

The burned district covered approximately ten acres, but a large portion of this area was devoted to the athletic field of the Multnomah club.

The fire started in the old exposition building, an immense wooden structure on the south side of Washington street, extending from Nineteenth street to Twentieth, having a length of about 400 feet and a depth of 220 feet.

Killed in Mistake for Another. Kendallville, Ind.—Albert Lehr, thirty-eight years old, was killed by five Italians employed on a section gang while standing on the platform of the Lake Shore depot. The shooting is thought to be the outcome of the accidental killing of an Italian by a freight train three weeks ago.

Lightning Strikes Church. Petersburg, Ind.—During a heavy rainstorm Saturday lightning struck and set fire to the Cumberland Presbyterian church, David Huey's residence at Oatsville and to the henery of E. Wiseman of this city, destroying it and cremating 212 springers.

Trimmed Corn; Woman Dies. Arcola, Ill.—Mrs. Mary Harding, an aged resident of this city, died Saturday after the amputation of a leg, made necessary by blood poison caused by trimming a corn.

INDICTED IN RISK PROBE

Rock Island Jury Returns True Bills Against 13 Persons in Insurance Scandal.

Rock Island.—Seven indictments charging 13 people with conspiracy, embezzlement and perjury was the product of the grand jury investigation of fraternal insurance frauds.

Those indicted are: Dr. A. L. Craig, Chicago, former medical director of the Fraternal Tribunes.

C. F. Hatfield, Chicago. M. J. Franckel, Chicago.

Miss Margaret McElvaine, Auburn, Ill.

Harold A. Weld, Rock Island, former supreme treasurer of Fraternal Tribunes.

Otto L. Caldwell, Springfield, Ill.

M. B. Garber, Washington.

Thomas W. Wilson, Springfield, Ill.

Dr. C. H. Walters, Springfield, Ill.

S. S. McElvaine, Auburn, Ill.

George W. Kenney, Springfield, Ill.

K. M. Witham, Alledo, Ill., former supreme tribune of Fraternal Tribunes.

The indictments were returned Wednesday and are against the four former officers of the Fraternal Tribunes prior to the merger with the American Home Circle, and the four officers of the American Home Circle who gained control of the Fraternal Tribunes by means of the merger and by inducing the officers of the Tribunes to resign their offices; against C. F. Hatfield, who was, it is said, the man who brought about the deal; George W. Kenney, who is said to have secured money on fraudulent notes, and against three of the witnesses, who are declared to have testified falsely before the grand jury here with reference to money received on alleged loans they made to the Home Circle and for which they received payment after the merger with the Tribunes.

ROYAL ARCANUM HARD HIT

New York Court Decides Order Cannot Raise Its Assessment Rates Without Members' Consent.

New York.—Supreme Court Justice William J. Kelly of Brooklyn handed down a decision in which he holds that the supreme council of the Royal Arcanum cannot raise its assessment rates without permission from the members of the organization.

It is believed that the decision deals a hard blow to the order. The case was brought to the attention of the court by Samuel Green of Brooklyn, who is a member of the DeWitt Clinton council R. A., and who at one time held one of the highest positions in the council.

In deciding in favor of the plaintiff Justice Kelly declares that the society cannot assume an unlimited reserved power to increase the amount of assessment to an extent which might be prohibitive and could only result in depriving the individual of his membership.

SHALE ROCK CASES ENDED

Verdicts of "Not Guilty" Are Ordered by Judge Against Two Remaining Defendants.

Chicago.—Verdicts of "not guilty" in favor of Contractor Michael H. McGovern and Ralph A. Bonnell, former assistant city engineer, were signed in Judge Albert C. Barnes' court Friday, the jury acting in obedience to instructions from the court.

By the acquittal of the remaining defendants in the identical way in which City Engineer John Ericson and former Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Paul Redleske had previously been eliminated from the case the trial for alleged conspiracy to defraud the city out of $45,984.20 in payments made for "sale-rock extras" in the Lawrence avenue sewer case, came to an abrupt end.

The statute of limitations has run and there will be no more indictments.

Beef Freight Rates Stand. Washington.—The interstate commerce commission announced Friday that the recently filed tariffs, making advances in the freight rates on cattle and dressed beef between Chicago and New York, had not been suspended.

Corporation Tax Payments. Washington.—Payments on account of the corporation tax are now within a million dollars of the assessments made by the bureau of internal revenue. They amount to $26,285,723.

ONE THING CERTAIN.

"Do you know," shouted the earnest orator, "what to do to the trust?" "No, but I know blame well what they're doing to us!" said a man in the front row.

Would prefer one with property, but one with a good paying position would be satisfactory. The young lady is of medium height, has brown hair and gray eyes, not fat, although, most decidedly, she is not skinny. Her friends say she is a fine looking woman. Object matrimony. Reason for this advertisement, the young woman lives in a little dinky town, where the best catches are the boys behind the counters in the dry goods and clothing stores, and every one of them is spoken for by the time he is out of his short pants. WASHINGTON GOSSIP

Uncle Sam Probes Third Degree System

WASHINGTON.—One of the investigating committees set in motion at the late session of congress that is expected to yield some interesting results is the subcommittee of five senators, members of the judiciary committee, who have been directed to investigate and report on the workings of the "third degree," as exemplified by federal officers in criminal prosecutions.

The investigation will take a wide range. One member of the committee will be sent to Oklahoma to learn what basis there is for the charge made by Gov. Haskell and his friends, that the prosecutions started against him under the Roosevelt administration were inspired by personal malice, and that the methods resorted to by the special agents of the government in their efforts to convict Haskell, were discreditable.

Another branch of the investigation will relate to some of the western prosecutions, especially those conducted by Robert Kay Devlin, as United States attorney for the Northern district of California. Devlin's nomination was hung up in the judiciary committee of the senate for a long time, on a complaint that he had persecuted Dr. Perrin, one of the defendants in certain land-fraud cases, who, after being indicted, was finally discharged for want of evidence.

A special agent of the department of justice sent out to investigate the charge made a written report that Dr. Perrin should never have been indicted; that improper methods were employed to bring about his indictment, and even after the government officers were aware that they could not make a case against Dr. Perrin, the indictment was allowed to hang over his head for many months, to his great personal detriment.

The methods of Francis J. Heney and Detective Burns may be inquired into, and it is not unlikely that some attention may be given to the charge made against the method of administering the criminal laws in Alaska, especially at Juneau, where the United States attorney and United States marshal were recently removed from office on the complaint of Gov. Walter E. Clark.

The resolution directing an investigation was offered by Senator Heyburn of Idaho, and was based upon reports in newspapers of the police methods employed in the Saylor murder case at Atlantic City. That case was not one with which the federal government had to do, but, in as much as the methods complained of may infringe the constitutional guarantees of the individual citizen, the committee feels that it has jurisdiction, and that case along with others complained of will be investigated.

CLEAR SECRETARY

CONGRESSIONAL PROBERS WILL EXONERATE BALLINGER OF EVERY CHARGE IS REPORT.

A SAFE, RELIABLE OFFICIAL

Majority Report is Prepared by Senator Nelson, Substance of Which Will Be Made Public Later.

Washington.—Richard A. Ballinger is vindicated. The secretary of the interior has been unjustly accused by Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield and Louis Glavis. He is the right man in the right place and he ought to be invited to continue holding down the job as long as he cares to have it.

This, it is reported, sums up the findings of the majority of the joint congressional committee, which for five months has been making an exhaustive investigation of the conduct of affairs of the entire department of the interior, and also of the bureau of forestry of the department of agriculture.

The investigators who concur in these findings will be found to be Senators Flint, Sutherland and Root and Representatives McCall, Denby and Olmstead.

Minority reports disagreeing with the foregoing findings will be made by:

Representative Madison, Senators Purcell and Fletcher and Representatives James and Graham.

Madison is a Republican and the last four named men are Democrats.

The basis of the report for the majority was prepared by Senator Nelson and for the minority by Representative James. Mr. Madison is writing his own opinions. It is understood that the results of the labors of Mr. Nelson and Mr. James have been submitted to the members of the committee for criticism and for additions. By the time the committee reassembles on September 10 it will have in practically final shape the reports which it will make.

The majority report will declare: That Mr. Ballinger is a wise, honest, conservative officer of the government; that he acted entirely within the right and displayed proper judgment in his attitude with respect to the Cunningham coal claims; that he was justified in his criticism of the reclamation service; that nothing was developed to prove any monopoly or improper granting of water power sites, and that Ballinger was justified in abandoning the policy of Mr. Garfield, expressed in a "co-operative agree" whereby absolute control, management and direction of certain employees in the Indian service were given over to the forestry bureau of the department of agriculture.

The noise aroused the "corpse." The prostrate figure slowly arose, disclosing the stalwart form of a negro. He gazed in astonishment at the crowd that blocked up the entrance to the alley and saw the policeman and white-coated Emergency surgeon elbowing their way toward him. With a yawn and a stretch of his arms, the negro darted into the side door of a printing office, slamming the door behind him.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the negro has been employed at the printing establishment a number of years. He said he was tired and went out into the quiet, cool alleyway to take a nap during the lunch hour. That was all.

Plot to Slay Worcester

U. S. Official Barely Escapes With His Life From Hands of Renegade Moros.

Manila.—Dean C. Worcester, American secretary of interior for the Philippines, was set upon by renegade Moros, on the island of Palawan Monday and escaped assassination only through the alertness of his bodyguard, who shot down the outlaws, killing three of them outright.

Secretary Worcester was touring the island, which is the most westerly of the larger Philippine group, bounding the Sulu sea on the west, and was present at the installation of the new governor.

In anticipation of his coming a band of Moros planned his death.

Armed with bolos carefully concealed, they laid a trap for the secretary, who suddenly found himself the object of a savage rush.

REPORT CRIPPEN IN CANADA

Liner Steward Declares Alleged Wife Slayer Reaches Montreal on Steamer Megantic.

Montreal, Que.—Positive statements that Doctor Crippen, the London murderer, sought by Scotland Yard, arrived here Sunday on the White Star Dominion liner Megantic was made Monday by H. J. Airress, saloon steward of this ship, who is corroborated by two other stewards.

The actions and appearance of a passenger who was attended at table by Airress and accompanied by a woman registered only as "Carruthers," seemed suspicious to the steward.

When the liner docked here the couple attracted much attention by their apparent haste to disembark. They hailed a cab and disappeared. The police believe Crippen has left Montreal for American soil.

The Stomach Hold.
Colonel H. N. Renouf, at the "Old Guard" banquet at Delmonico's, emphasized the importance to an army of a good commissariat.

"You have perhaps heard," he said, "of the company of privates that a patriotic lady entertained one Memorial day to dinner."

"It was a good dinner, and at its end a pretty maid-servant entered with a superb dessert."

"Dessert, sergeant?" she said to the stalwart young soldier at the head of the table.

"Desert?" the sergeant answered. "When I can get cats like this for nothin'? Nixie! Not me!"

Incorruptible.
The lady of the house hesitated. "Are my answers all right?" she asked.

"Yes, madam," replied the census man.

"Didn't bother you a bit, did it?" "No, madam."

"Feel under some obligations to me, don't you?" "Yes, madam."

"Then, perhaps, you won't mind telling me how old the woman next door claims to be?"

"Good day, madam," said the census man.

Didn't Care for Expenses.
They were seated at the breakfast table.

"John, dear," said the young wife, "this is my birthday."

"I'm glad you mentioned it, darling," rejoined her husband. "I'll buy you a present the first thing when I get downtown."

"Well," she said, "I hope you won't get any cheap 98-cent affair."

"Of course I won't," he replied. "Why, I would be ashamed to present you with anything that cost less than a dollar."

"Corpse" Aroused by Noise, Runs Away

"THERE'S a dead man in that alley."

This exclamation by an excited colored man at Eleventh and E streets, in Washington, caused considerable consternation among pedestrians and loungers in that vicinity a few days ago. He pointed to a narrow alleyway on the north side of E street between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, between two buildings.

Pretty soon the mouth of the little alley was blocked by curious people. A business man in the neighborhood who peered over the heads of the morbid crowd and saw a man stretched out full length, and apparently very ill or dead, in the alleyway, telephoned to the Emergency hospital for an ambulance. Other men ran hither and thither in search of a policeman.

"He may be drunk," suggested an old man as he gazed at the prostrate form.

"No," another man declared, "I reckon it is a case of heat prostration."

"I think he's just dreamin' about Jack Johnson's victory," said a third.

In the meantime the Emergency hospital ambulance with clanging gong arrived on the scene, and a policeman with perspiration streaming down his face rushed up to the mouth of the alley and was forcing his way through the crowd to get at the supposed dead man.

The noise aroused the "corpse." The prostrate figure slowly arose, disclosing the stalwart form of a negro.

He gazed in astonishment at the crowd that blocked up the entrance to the alley and saw the policeman and white-coated Emergency surgeon elbowing their way toward him. With a yawn and a stretch of his arms, the negro darted into the side door of a printing office, slamming the door behind him.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the negro has been employed at the printing establishment a number of years. He said he was tired and went out into the quiet, cool alleyway to take a nap during the lunch hour. That was all.

Sold MacVeagh Spoiled Vinegar; Fined

JAMES WILSON, secretary of agriculture, has been hot-footing it after a Chicago man who had the temerity to sell Franklin MacVeagh, secretary of the treasury, a barrel of bogus vinegar. MacVeagh bought the vinegar believing it was the real thing, the kind that father used to make on the farm, fit to put on lettuce and pickle pigs' feet with and all that sort of thing.

The looks and smell of the stuff made him suspicious, and so he hallooed for the pure food inspectors to come and examine. They reported the alleged vinegar was in reality adulterated and artificially colored and misbranded. A criminal information was filed against the luckless storekeeper and he was taken into the United States court, accused of deceiving and misleading MacVeagh.

Government's O. K. on the Lowly Toad

A RECENT bulletin of the department of agriculture in Washington has taken up the case of the toad, dispelling the "host of vague and ludicrous fancies as to its venomous qualities." Its medicinal virtues, or most commonly, the hidden toadstone of priceless value.

Touching toads, says the bulletin, does not produce warts on the hands. The toad's breath does not cause convulsions in children, nor does a toad in a newly dug well insure a good and unfailing water supply, nor in a new-made cellar will one bring prosperity to the household.

The Massachusetts experiment station has been investigating the habits, food and economic value of the toad, and the result establishes its claim to consideration and appreciation. First of all, as to the longevity of the toad, the investigators express the opinion that many toads reach an age of at least ten or fifteen years. They also believe it possible for the toad to live for a limited time without food, but doubt stories about toads being found in rocks and trees.

"The toad," says the pamphlet, "is a nocturnal animal, and ventures out during the day only when tempted by an abundance of food or when the air and moving insects, centipedes, etc. At is full of moisture. It eats only living night, soon after sundown, or even before on cool evenings. It emerges from its shelter and slowly hops about in search of food. Almost a regular beat is covered. In the country this includes forays along roadsides, into gardens and cultivated fields and wherever insect food is abundant and grass or other thick herbage does not prevent locomotion. In cities and suburban villages the lawns, walks and particularly the spots beneath electric lamps are favorite hunting grounds.
